MAY CLOSE PAU ROAD TWO DAYS

Oil Will Be Given Time In Which To Dry

The meeting of the Board of Supervisors last night was a very tame affair. Nothing of unusual importance was brought up, routine matters only being attended to. The Civic Federation sent in a communication, recommending that places of public convenience be placed in at least three different parts of the city. The matter was referred to the Committee on Sanitation and Health and they will take it under advisement.

Supervisor Dwight had the floor most of the time. He wanted to find out from the County Attorney whether the Board had the right to compel the people to follow out the instructions laid down by the curbing ordinance. He stated that at the present time whenever any mention was made to them about curbing their sidewalks they simply laughed.

The oiling of the Pali road also came up for discussion. It was shown that all the recent work that has been done on the road would be ruined by storms if it was not oiled. However, it would not do much good unless the road could be closed to the public for at least two days, the time the oil needs in which to dry. Supervisor Dwight recommended that the County Attorney give his legal opinion as to the limits of the authority of the Board with regard to suspending traffic for a couple of days.

The recent rainstorms did considerable damage to roads on the Ko'olau side, and for the repair of this $200 was voted by the Supervisors. The following routine accounts were passed, after which the meeting adjourned until next Wednesday:

Inspection of Supervisors, $92.50; County Engineer, $76.90; Garbage Department, $543; Road Department Alewa Heights, $257.75; Road Department, $3195.79; Ewa Road District, $878.15.

COURT VISITS SCENE

The case of John Powers, who is charged with manslaughter, came up this morning before District Magistrate Andrade, but was continued until next Thursday. The trouble happened on Peterson Lane, in Palama, and the Court, in order to acquaint itself with the surroundings, visited the place. The prosecution is represented by Chas. F. Chillingworth and E. C. Peters appears for the defendant.

CRIMINAL CHARGE

able that he was laboring under some insane impulse that led him to attempt to assault Miss Smith.

Clarence English, the Omaha pugilist, who has been with Agnew a great deal of late and was with him in the Tremont bar, was arrested late yesterday afternoon. He denies any knowledge of the assault. English is a murchinist, but came to Denver seeking a match with Rudolph Unholz, the boxer prizefighter. His wife is at 2531 California street. Agnew's wife is at 2558 Lawrence street.

Chief Delaney is convinced that a plot was formed by Agnew and English to commit the robbery, they believing that Mrs. Smith had concealed a number of valuable jewels.

Detectives Kenney and McNeill have woven a strong web of circumstantial evidence around Agnew. He was taken before Mrs. Smith, and she identified him.

"Mrs. Smith told us," said the detectives, "that there would be two scratches on Agnew's face on the left side. She said that she inflicted these during the struggle.

"Agnew has two scratches on the left side of his face."

"We took our prisoner next before Prior. 'My, but that is a bad eye you've got,' said Agnew to Prior."

"Yes," replied Prior, "that blow you gave me with that blackjack last night was a fierce one."

"Shut up," replied Agnew. "If these officers were not here I would beat you to death."
